REAL ESTATE PROFESSIONALS NETWORK | MEMBER RESOURCE

Commission Negotiation Scripts

Word-for-Word Language for Value Conversations

Updated September 2026 | 18 pages | Professional Development

This document is for REPN members only. Do not redistribute

REPN

1. Why Scripts Matter

Since the 2024 NAR settlement, buyers and sellers ask direct questions about compensation. Agents who answer with rehearsed, confident language convert at more than twice the rate of those who improvise.

Scripts are not about manipulation. They are about clarity: helping clients understand exactly what professional representation delivers.

2. The Seller Conversation

Script: I charge six percent, of which half goes to the buyer's agent. Let me show you what that includes: professional staging consultation, photography, syndication to 74 portals, weekly written updates, and negotiation by a full-time professional. In 2026, my listings sold for 4.2 percent more than the market average.

Follow this with silence. The first agent to speak after a value statement often concedes. Let the client respond.

3. Handling Common Objections

When asked, will you take less: I understand commissions feel significant. My business is built on net results for clients, not transactions. If my full program does not fit your goals, I am happy to refer you to a colleague whose model does.

This preserves your positioning while offering a graceful exit. Members report that fewer than one in ten sellers proceed without representation after this conversation.